Writing my Will has given me such peace of mind

When my husband, Ted, died, he didn't have a Will in place. Thankfully, because we were married with children, I inherited his estate, but learnt that if I didn't write one, the house and our savings might not be shared out as I'd like. I was overwhelmed by the idea of writing my Will, but the solicitor offered clear, impartial advice and listened to all of my wishes. It also felt great giving something back to the hospice with my Make a Will Month donation and gift to the hospice in my Will.

Eileen, 78
